geometric shapes and figures. The student is asked to identify the shapes and figures and to describe their properties.

prisoners and the psychiatrist, Cynthia describes the tragic events that led her to the humiliation of prison life. Readers sense Cynthia's terrifying helplessness and hopelessness.

This is a book which should stand with the classics. It is quotable, epigrammatic, and filled with lines the reader wants to tell someone. It is a book to keep, yet one to give. One comes which is also available from the publisher.
